It's one of those "good to kill time" games, which isn't bad. But quietly boring.

Do never: Walk against a corner and/or between rock and wall. You get stuck and can load last checkpoint.

There is this mission which will remind probably someone of something that happened in dark history, so if you easily offended. probably not the right game for you.

And sprinting is not possible, which gets annoying since your walking speed is rather slow...

I'm really not able to "Recommend" this game. Buy It On Sale, or buy it if you like what you see. Decide for yourself!. Throw a oscar to the developers' face.. The whole premise of this game is just dumb, and if it weren't so poorly made, I'd probably have given this a half decent review and call it an alright time waster. But it's hard as hell to play. There's no sprint, there's an overload of enemies and a lack of supplies. It feels plainly impossible to play. The graphics weren't terrible, though the 3D style could have been better made. I was disappointed to see a corn stalk growing from outside some fence while the other half of that same corn stalk was on the inside. Overall, not that great of a game.
